> A Sign of Rain.—A practical friend, who lont believe in barometers, and seldom consults the skies to tell when it is going to rain, called our attention to a sign which never fails, even in dry weather. It was a pig traveling homeward with a quantity of straw in its mouth. "This," said our informant, "is to protect it against a coming storm. It will rain within 48 hours." Let us see if the pig really is a weather prophet. -Mil. Sentinel.

Sign:—You spoke to me in reference to the efficacy of Dr. Scovill's Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla and Stillingta, or Blood and Liver Syrup. I considered the ingredients, finding them—composed of the best alteratives now in use by the medical profession. I consequently admitted the use of the compound in my practice, believing it to be a rafe and reliable remedy, and have had decided satisfaction in the administration of the remedy since I adopted it twelve months ago. I can with satisfaction recommend it to the public as an alterative of great utility and certainty in the diseases for which it is recommended.

With respect yours, C. P. BROWNING, M. D. Wyoming, Ky., April 14, 1859. sep12diw

Expressions are generally leib to speak a word in presset.

Physicians are generally loth to speak a word in praise of what are called "patent medicines." Indeed it is an article in the code of medical ethics, that a physian article in the code of medical ethics, that a physician who sanctions the use of such remedies, cannot be considered a member of the National Association. But there are exceptions to the most stringent rules, and many of the disciples of Esculapius have actually been compelled by the force of facts, to recommend the use of Dr. J. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, for those diseases which are particularly prevalent during the summer and fall. They have ascertained that there are no remadles in the pharmacopia which can compare with this wonderful compound for derangement of the system.—Thousands of families residing along the low grounds of the western and southern river, are now convinced that they have found a medicino peculiarly adapted for their ailments, while in other portions of the country, during the summer months, the demand for the article is equally large.
